

ABSTRACT

A taping tool that includes a pole having a general U-shaped bracket at one end, a roller adapted to be connected to the general U-shaped bracket; and a general L-shaped bracket having a horizontal leg and a vertical leg. The horizontal leg includes openings for securing mechanisms to secure the general U-shaped bracket to the general L-shaped bracket, and the vertical leg includes openings for securing mechanisms to secure a blade to the general L-shaped bracket. The taping tool is used to finish taped seams by rolling the taped seam to evenly distribute the compound behind the tape and to set the tape in the seam, and using the blade to remove excess compound from the taped seam.